WINNIPEG IS STORM BOUND

Alberta and Manitoba Weather in Sharp Contrast.

A TWENTY-FOUR HOUR GALE

Sidewalks, Telephone and Telegraph Poles Have Treacherous Covering of Ice, While Wintry Cold Prevails.

Winnipeg, April 16.—Not for many years has the province and city been visited by such a disagreeable, unseasonable and in many respects disastrous storm as that which all yesterday and throughout the night and today without intermission sweeping before a strong wind, rain, sleet and snow, coating the streets, sidewalks, telephone and telegraph lines with a treacherous covering of ice, and generally lying up traffic as a winter storm could not do. For twenty-four hours the gale has raged, and with every hour the temperature has dropped until the atmosphere has attained wintry coldness, and the rain of early morning yesterday has changed first to sleet and later to snow.

Young Man Suicides

Toronto, April 16.—Driven out by loss Chisholm and Mann Fraser, were the words of a note in the pocket of Fred. Jewell, 157 Berkeley st., Toronto, who was found with a bullet wound in the temple lying at the side of a road at the north end of Newmarket. The young man is only nineteen years of age, is not expected to live. The police investigated and found that the lad was employed as a baker by Thos. Chisholm of Queen street west, had quit work the day before after some of his work had been criticized by his employer.

A FIENDISH CRIME

Michigan Miner Blows Up His Wife, Son and Himself.

Nemadoc, Mich., April 16.—Frank Hartman, a miner, aged 21, placed a stick of dynamite under the bed in which his wife and three-year-old daughter were sleeping. When the dynamite exploded, the woman, the girl and their son were blown to atoms. The girl had a miraculous escape, being found practically unhurt on the floor of the room.

"The Port of Missing Men"

The Capital will commence on Monday the publication of a new Serial Story. Readers of fiction will not soon forget the impression made by the appearance of some years ago of that striking book "The House of a Thousand Candles" by Meredith Nicholson. The Capital has secured the serial rights of one of Mr. Nicholson's later successes "The Port of Missing Men." The first chapter, which appears on Monday, captures the interest immediately.

The stories which the Capital proposes to publish from time to time are of a class vastly superior to those which usually find a place in the pages of a newspaper. Mr. Nicholson and Mr. McCutcheon, whose "The Man from Brodney's" has just been finished, seldom issue books that do not immediately rank with the "best sellers." Needless to say, it is not a small source of expense to secure the privilege of publication of these novels, the cost of which in book form is twice as heavy as a subscription of the Capital for the period during which they run. But the readers appreciate them for them. The best is none to good for them. Incidentally, with the beginning of the publication of "The Port of Missing Men," it would be well for those who are not regular subscribers to get immediately on the list.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY HERE

Dr. Lee De Forest Expects to Establish a Station in Edmonton.

Winnipeg, April 16.—Dr. Lee De Forest, inventor of the system of wireless telephony, which has so far attained the highest degree of commercial success, arrived in the city yesterday. He is here in connection with the installation of a plant for the Radio Telephone Co., which proposes to operate a system of stations throughout the whole of western Canada. Though all the plans have not yet been perfected, he states that it is the intention of the company to install a central station at Winnipeg, which will be in connection with Chicago, and so throughout the whole of the United States. Further west stations will probably be established at Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton. These will be in communication with the central plant by means of the wireless telegraph installation, which is one of the patents held by the company. From these points communication by wireless telephony may then be carried on to points within a comparatively short radius.

SHOT SWEETHEART, KILLED HIMSELF

Italian in Calgary, Driven Insane by Intense Jealousy, Causes Tragedy.

Calgary, April 16.—Driven insane by mad jealousy, an Italian whose name is Giuseppe More, shot and killed a girl by the name of Rosie Smith, a denizen of the red light district at Nose Creek, and formerly his sweetheart, and then putting the revolver to his own head blew out his brains, dying instantly. The scene of the tragedy was the house of Leta Wilson, one of the well known restorers of the segregated district.

The Italian who committed the terrible deed came to the home about five minutes to two, apparently quite happy and smiling. He was met at the door by the keeper of the resort and asked if he might see Rosie. Consent was given and he proceeded up the stairs to her room, where he was directed. He had been on stairs for about twenty minutes when shots were heard.

ROUGH ON AVIATORS

J. K. CORNWALL EXPLAINS TO COMMISSION CLARKE'S INTEREST IN THE STEAMBOAT BUSINESS AND HIS PAYMENT OF $14,500

Member for Peace River Was Again Under Cross Examination by Mr. R. B. Bennett Before the Royal Commission This Morning — Commission Adjourns Until Monday — Dr. Waddell the Next Witness

In the cross-examination of Mr. J. K. Cornwall, which was continued before the Royal Commission this morning, the most important feature was the clearing up by Mr. Cornwall of the circumstances under which W. R. Clarke agreed to pay him $25,000 in connection with the development of the steamboat business in the north. It was at the suggestion of Mr. Justice Scott that this matter was gone into more thoroughly. Mr. Cornwall explained that the formation of a company had been spoken of in a general way and that Mr. Clarke had agreed to make him an advance payment in consideration for which Mr. Clarke was to have a controlling interest in the company when it was formed. Mr. Cornwall then to receive shares in the company had no interest in that company and that he had no understanding by which he was to acquire an interest.

The Commission adjourned at noon until Monday morning. Mr. Cornwall's cross-examination will then be completed and the examination of the next witness, Dr. Waddell of the A. & G. W. Company, begun.

Speaking of the Northern Transportation Company, which is Mr. Cornwall's steamboat company up north, Mr. Bennett asked Mr. Cornwall what share of the company was stated that Mr. Clarke was to have to go to Mr. Clarke. Mr. Cornwall a controlling interest in a company that was to be organized to take over his steamboats.

"Peradventure this company may be termed the Canada West Construction Co.," suggested Mr. Bennett.

"May be,"

"And has power to build and take over steamboats?"

"Yes."

"Were Clarke and you going to run a steamboat company?"

"Yes."

"And he bought out your interest in the steamboats to what extent?"

"He was to control the steamboat company when it was finally formed, and I was to have some shares in this company and the $25,000 that he promised to pay me."

"Did you purpose to put the $25,000 in the steamboat or in your pocket?"

"Mr. Justice Harvey asked."

"Eight or ten thousand dollars have already gone into the boats," replied Mr. Cornwall.

"The question of how much stock you were to receive in the proposed company was left an open question?"

"Yes."

"Was this $25,000 to go into more boats or into your pockets?" asked Mr. Justice Beck.

"It was to be paid to me."

"For you to use personally?"

"To be used as I saw fit. To be put in the boats principally."

"Had you the right to do just what I liked with it?"

"In other words when you got the $25,000 you took part of it and went to Germany?" asked Mr. Bennett.

"Yes."

"It was not his business whether you put that money in your pocket or not so long as the boats were worth $20,000 when you turned them over to him?"

"Yes."

"And you were to receive stock in the new company in payment for the boats?"

"Yes."

Immediately after the Commission resumed Mr. Bennett took up his cross-examination of Mr. J. K. Cornwall.

He said that he had learned that Mr. A. D. Bowen had registered at the Hotel Hazel on May 24th, 1908, and had left on May 31st. Mr. Cornwall had come there on May 24th and left on the 27th. Mr. Cornwall said that he had no distinct recollection. Mr. Bennett went on to say that the books showed that Mr. Bowen had been at the same hotel from June 28th to 13th and that Mr. Cornwall had been there from June 6th to June 12th.

"I do not recollect it," said Mr. Cornwall. "It is quite likely."

"I will not be satisfied with that answer," declared Mr. Bennett.

"It is a fair answer," said Mr. Justice Harvey. "He says that he does not recollect it. If you have the hotel records it shows that he was there."

Mr. Bennett quoted a later date in June in which Mr. Bowen was here with his wife and children. Mr. Bennett said that he remembered Mr. Bowen and his family being here.

Mr. Bennett said further that the hotel register showed that Mr. Clarke was there from June 22nd to June 27th, during the time Mr. Bowen and family was there.

"My first recollection of meeting Clarke was when Mr. and Mrs. Bowen were here," said Mr. Cornwall.

Mr. Bennett then referred to some telegrams found on the Attorney-General's file, dated June 26th, "unperturbed," Mr. Bennett said, "to give a certificate of character to Mr. Clarke."

"Did you have any conversation with the Attorney-General in reference to Mr. Clarke?" asked Mr. Bennett.

"I certainly did not."

"Do you have any recollection of seeing any of these telegrams?"

"No."

"You never saw or heard of Mr. Clarke's credentials as evidenced by these telegrams?"

"No."

"Did you know at this time, June 26th to 28th, 1908, that Bowen was associated with Clarke?"

"It was about that time I learned it."

"Did you know that at this time Clarke and Bowen thought that they had made a satisfactory deal with the government?"

"I presume so."

"Why?"

"Because they talked as though they intended going ahead with the business of floating the company."

"Did you learn at this time that Clarke was going to England later to launch the enterprise?"

"No."

"Did you ever learn it?"

"No. I heard him say he thought of going to France, but not to England."

"Was it 'France' he said, or the 'Old Country'?"

"Well, he might have said the 'Old Country'."

"When did he tell you this?"

"In the fall of 1908."

"Now you did not sign the opinions given to Bowen on the syndicate, until the last extension?"

"That's right."

"Now one of the opinions was signed by Mr. Metcalfe, now Judge Metcalfe, acting as your attorney. Why was he chosen your attorney?"

"He was a friend of mine."

"At whose suggestion?"

"My own, of course."

"And on November 24th, 1908, you gave Mr. Metcalfe the power to look after your interests in the profits of the syndicate. So that at this time you expected some profits?"

"Well, I had hopes that there might be some, although it wasn't likely."

"And the only reason that you can give why Mr. Metcalfe was chosen instead of Mr. Minty was what?"

"Mr. Bennett, I have told you that two or three times already," retorted Mr. Cornwall sharply. "I'll tell you again and I hope it will percolate into your brain this time. Mr. Metcalfe was a very old friend of mine, and that was the only reason."

"I can hardly blame Mr. Cornwall," remarked Mr. Justice Harvey. "It's rather wearying to have the same question asked several times."

"Well, my lords," replied Mr. Bennett, "if I haven't the confidence of this Commission in sufficient measure to enable me to ask a question more than once, in view of the knowledge that I have, I think my value to this commission is at an end."

Mr. McKenzie suggested that if Mr. Bennett would declare some of this mysterious information, things might move more rapidly.

"I will be perfectly willing to tell all I know," replied Mr. Bennett. "It must be apparent now that Mr. Bowen is a necessary witness, and I desire to say frankly to this commission that I can place very little credit in some of this witness' answers."

"You were in Winnipeg when you gave this power of attorney to Mr. Metcalfe?"

"Yes."

"Had you seen Mr. Minty that day?"

"Possibly. He was in the same building."

"Did you deliver this power of attorney to Mr. Minty?"

"I presume I gave him a copy."

Mr. Bennett quoted the terms of the option by which if a railway was incorporated to run over the same line as the proposed Athabasca Railway, the members of the Athabasca Railway were to receive $100,000 paid shares in the new company.

"Have you received any part of those shares?"

"No."

"Have you received any cash in lieu thereof?"

"No."

"Now you have any expectations or hopes of receiving it?"

"No."

"On the 2nd day of November Mr. Minty arrived in Edmonton and he stayed until 14th. Mr. Clarke also arrived the same day and stayed until the 14th. You arrived on the next day and stayed until the 17th," said Mr. Bennett. "Do you remember that occasion?"

"If records show it, I must have been there."

A REMARKABLE FEAT

Young Man Rescued a Scow 150 Feet Above Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, April 16.—By successfully rescuing a scow of remarkably daring swimming dashes, Everett Mason, a young man of this city, yesterday succeeded in reaching the farthest mid-stream point in the Niagara river ever attained by a human being, excepting in cases of suicide or accident. A scow which recently drifted down the river and became caught on a group of rocks between Goat Island and the American shore, about fifty feet from the shore and one hundred and fifty feet above the falls, where the current is the swiftest, was his objective point. He reached it after going under once. Mason first waded and swam to Ship Island, thence to Bird Island, and then to scow, returning safely.

"Did you not learn what was in this letter of the Premier's to Rutherford?"

"No, not at that time."

"Did you learn at this time that Clarke was going to England?"

"No."

"Do you remember the Premier making the statement that Clarke had told him in the fall of 1908 that he was going to England to float the company?"

"I have no recollection of it."

"Did Bowen ever return to this province after the fall of 1908, as far as you know?"

"No."

"Now, Mr. Cornwall, did not anybody tell you that the government had guaranteed said?"

"They told me they were satisfied with the way the government had been treating them."

"Do you know whether they intended using the Athabasca Company or forming a new company?"

"Was there any discussion that a new company was to be formed?"

"I believe there was some, but not with me."

"Did no one tell you anything about such a move?"

"No."

What Did It Mean?

A letter from Bowen to Minty, July 28, 1908, regarding the formation of a new company, was read by Mr. Bennett. In this letter the expression "We must keep out of the field for a while" was used.

"Do you know what Bowen meant by that?"

"No, I don't," replied Mr. Cornwall.

Mr. Justice Harvey thought that very likely it meant keep out of sight.

"That's what I think, too," agreed Mr. Bennett, "as I happen to know that Mr. Bowen was asked to leave Edmonton."

Mr. Bennett then referred back to Mr. Cornwall's visit to Winnipeg in December, 1908, and Mr. Minty's letter to Clarke in which reference was made to having seen Mr. Cornwall and to Mr. Cornwall having had an interview with Premier Rutherford. This letter was discussed yesterday. It was in it that Minty had suggested that Mr. Cornwall wished to keep Mr. Rutherford informed of the progress made and would inform Mr. Clarke of Mr. Rutherford's desires. Mr. Cornwall said that he could best clear that up by telling just what his conversation with Mr. Rutherford had been.

Mr. Rutherford had said that it looked as if he (Cornwall) was going to get a railway into the north country. Mr. Rutherford had then asked Mr. Cornwall how his friends were getting on. Mr. Cornwall had said that he was not in very close touch with them but had every confidence in them. Mr. Rutherford had said that he hoped the confidence would be justified. Mr. Cornwall said that he had reported this conversation to Minty and on it Minty had based this letter to Clarke.

In speaking of a letter from Minty to Clarke, Mr. Bennett wanted to know if Minty had any authority for the statement that Mr. Rutherford was depending upon Cornwall to tell him of Clarke's progress in floating the company, and that Clarke expected

SEVEN DEAD IN EXPLOSION

Landslide Completed Great Disaster in Little Quebec Village

AT A CONSTRUCTION CAMP

Along the Line of the Ha-Ha Bay Railway—Victims Overtaken in Their Sleep.

St. Alphonse, Que., April 16.—Seven men are known to be dead and seven more are missing as a result of a premature explosion and landslide which buried a gang of twenty men sleeping in a construction camp near Bagville on Thursday afternoon at Alphonse. The blast contained fifty barrels of dynamite and 200 barrels of powder was being used in a cut on the line of the "Ha Ha Bay Railway," near Bagville, County of Chateaufort, and the explosion caused over 75,000 cubic yards of earth and gravel to rush down from the cliff and crush upon the little camp, where twenty men, forming the night gang of the works, were at slumber. None of the unfortunate men escaped, and all were burned alive, a small portion of the group only being recovered before the fire was extinct. The dead are: Stanislaus Gagne, engineer, his assistant, O'Brien, another man named Gagne, one named Jennings from Toronto, a Dane and two Swedes. A man named Peterson was probably fatally hurt, with a Swede named Olson is also badly hurt, and a French-Canadian named Soulan.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH

Calgary Employing Printer Said to Have Been Assaulted.

Calgary, April 16.—Alex. Clarke, a partner with Sydney Tied in the Calgary Quick Print works, died in the General Hospital this morning, from what is supposed to be concussion of the brain, though the circumstances surrounding the death are mysterious. He was taken to the hospital unconscious a few days ago with a bruise on his head. It is said that he was assaulted and robbed. Deceased, who was about 34 years old and single, was born in Kincardine, and worked at his trade in Toronto, London and in the office of the Winnipeg Free Press, coming here a few years ago. An inquest will be held because of the mysterious circumstances of the death. The deceased's family has not yet been located.

FLANNAGAN TO TRAIN ARTHA

Famous Canadian, Who Was Responsible for Longboat's Success, Will Condition Jack Johnson for the Big Fight.

(By Walter H. Rebersall)
Having finished all his theatrical engagements until after his fight with Jeffries on July 4, Jack Johnson will begin work today at his training quarters on the south side. Upon his return from his Canadian theatrical engagements the champion hustled himself in making preparations for what he called the beginning of his hard training campaign.

While in Canada Jack signed Tom Flanagan, the old trainer of peletons, bicycle riders and fighters, to condition him. Jack has been a great admirer of Flanagan's ability to get his charges into condition, and it did not take the champion long to get Tom's consent to take personal charge of the champion as soon as he arrives at his training quarters at Ocean Beach, Cal.

Another acquisition was made to Jack's group of trainers when Johnson signed up Joe Rogers, the wrestler to help him in training. Rogers, who commonly is known as the American Apollo, is one of the biggest men in the country. He weighs close to 300 pounds and is fairly active for his weight. Besides being a good mat artist, Rogers can go a few with the gloves, and Johnson believes the big fellow will do him a lot of good.

Cotton to Aid Johnson
"Kid" Cotton, Joe Chynowski's protegee also will join the champion's camp today, and Jack asserted he would go six to ten rounds every day with him.

Monte Cutler, who has been Jack's sparring partner in his theatrical work will don the mitts with the champion in short bouts. Johnson signed a contract yesterday with Hammerstein, the eastern theatrical man, to show at the Victoria roof garden the week after the fight.

Jack was little perturbed yesterday when he was told of the betting on the big fight, and he said it was only natural for fellows like James J. Corbett, who have felt the sting of Jeffries' blows, to bet their money on the Boilermaker.

"Let them keep on thinking Jeffries will beat me, and I hope the odds on the day of the fight are 10 to 7 or 20 to 1 on Jeff. If that is the case there will be plenty of Jack Johnson money," said the champion.

"I see the public is criticizing me because I do not begin the same kind of training as Jeffries. Well, when the public believes I know more about boxing than Jeffries, more about a fight it is time for me to quit. I have been in the game for a long time and I believe I know when I should start training and what I should do. People say I am drinking and smoking and doing things which a champion should not do when he has a big fight on his hands. All such stories are false.

Light Work Begins Today
"My theatrical and outside work has kept me in pretty fair shape, and although I am a little over weight, it will be an easy matter for me to get into first class condition. I will begin light work today and start for my quarters at Ocean Beach on April 20. This will allow me two months on the coast in which to put me right."

"I am glad to see that Jeffries is taking such an interest in his training, for when I beat him I do not want him to have any excuses. I see Joe Chynowski is going next to join Jeffries, and the latter part of this week, Joe will make a good man for him, for he knows the game thoroughly.

Johnson said he had heard nothing of John McKeon being appointed referee for the fight. He said that (Johnson) starts for the coast on time. Jack asserted he had not reached the point where he needed a guardian and he guessed he could get along without having a "spotter" on his trail.

Jack Gleason one of the fight promoters, will leave the city for the coast tomorrow. Gleason is stopping in Chicago for a few days to close deals with the railway companies for the handling of the admission tickets in conjunction with railroad passageway. He said the result of his eastern work with the railroad companies would be announced shortly after his arrival on the coast.

MRS. JEFFRIES IS VERY SICK

Her Illness has put a Damper on Jim Jeffries' Training Stunts—There Was no Birthday Party.

Ben Lomond, Cal., April 16.—Refreshed by his relaxation and diversion Wednesday, J. J. Jeffries returned to the training grounds yesterday with more ginger in his work. He boxed three rounds with Bob Armstrong, the colored heavyweight, commencing with defensive tactics in the first round, to improve his speed and footwork. Jeffries was soon chasing the negro all around the ring, bag punching and handball followed. Jeffries was much worried over the impending operation on his wife. Mrs. Jeffries went to Oakland last night where she is to undergo the surgeon's knife on Saturday. Her departure puts an end to plans for a party tomorrow night in honor of Jeffries' 25th birthday, at least that is his age as given out by Berger.

REGINA OBJECTS TO MR. SHUSTER

The Bone-Pilers State That They Will Not Play Under the Official—We Fear They Must.

The first kick against President Eckstrom's beautiful board of umpires has been registered. Regina says, in no uncertain tone, that they will play in no game which is umpired by Mr. Shuster.

Jan's this rather a strong statement to make at the very beginning of the season? The President of the league has the power to appoint the umpires and the different clubs are bound to abide by his decision. If this is not done, why have a president at all?

It would probably be just as well for Regina to wait until they see how Shuster performs this season, before registering such a vehement protest. If said umpire's work is bad, Mr. Eckstrom will certainly hear about it and let him out.

Give the poor official a chance. He was not perfect last year, but may do very well in 1910. We had a sample of his work last year, when he let the poor, benighted Dinny McGuire inveigle him into calling a game on account of the darkness, thus doing Moose Jaw (we believe) out of a win. But as we remarked before, give him another chance.

Irish-Canadian B.B.C.

The above club will have a workout this (Saturday) afternoon at the second street grounds at 2:30 o'clock. All players who have signed up with the Irish-Canadians are requested to be on time.

LARRY PIPER FOR REGINA?

Sacramento Offers the Tiny Left Fiddler to Roxey—Piper Will Have to Stay With the Maroons.

Regina, April 15.—Larry Piper, the midge outfielder of the Winnipeg Maroons, has been offered the Regina club, Larry is the property of the Sacramento, Cal. club, from whom Secretary Arthur L. Smith, of the Regina club, yesterday received a letter, offering Piper in exchange for the pick of the Regina club, at the end of the season.

It is scarcely probable the local club will accept the proposition. A few weeks ago it made a bid for Piper but with Dvoran, Collins, and Fletcher signed, there is little chance of the "rabbit" good as he is, getting a chance in the garden. Anyway, the price is a steep one, as the pick of this year's big league will undoubtedly be of big league calibre.

It is hard on Piper, as he would like to get on a real ball team and the Regina turndown will no doubt mean another year in Winnipeg.

According to information received yesterday the schedule will be released the beginning of this week or the beginning of next.

LARRY SCHAFLY, CHAMP. EATER

Captain of the Newark Team, Formerly With Joe Kelly's Maple Leaf, is a Mighty Man With a Knife and Fork.

"Larry Schafly, the ball player," says Harry Harnstead, "is the largest eater now in captivity. A few months ago, it was my fortune to sit beside him at a hotel in Providence, and when Larry got hold of the menu, he simply swept his eye over it, and then spoke crisply to the waiter: 'Bring me soup, oysters, clams, fish, roast beef, cold tongue, onion, chipped beef, poached eggs, coffee, pie and cream and tapicoca pudding.'"

"The waiter went out and returned with a gigantic tray, containing a number of small samples of the various dishes Schafly had ordered. Larry sailed in and while he was carving away, a man across the table ordered beef."

When his order came in, it was a large thick chunk of meat, three times the size of any of Schafly's little portions. The ballplayer glared at the waiter and then belovell: "See here, you—trying to starve me, are you? Say, getting a roll of bills from his pocket, you see those bills? Yes? Well, take a good look at them, for that's all you will do—you'll never feel them."

The waiter bent over the man opposite. "Wouldn't you like a little roast duck, sir?" he queried. The man shook his head. Schafly leaned across the table and caught the man's sleeve. "For Mike's sake, friend," he cried, "order that duck and then give it to me!"

PROS. HAVE WORK OUT

Grady, Barnstead and Mills had a two hour work-out at Diamond Park yesterday afternoon, and were a tired looking trio when they climbed the hill at the completion of practice. They are rapidly rounding into shape, and the long runs around the field are doing a lot to take off the superfluous flesh. We are not fastidious by this, that Grady and Barney have more to spare, but Mills can lose a few pounds and never miss it.

At the time of writing, Deacon has not yet arrived from the coast but he will in all probability be at the grounds this afternoon, to superintend the practice. The real training season will commence on Monday, when the majority of the players will be in the city. With an even break in the way of favorable weather, the Eckstons should work in nearly two weeks practice, and the series with Crists rolls will put them on their mettle for the opening game.

SHINING UP STANLEY CUP

New Rim and Base for Great Hockey Trophy—Edmonton's Name on New Porion.

Ottawa, April 15.—The old Stanley Cup has been given a new facing, Messrs. A. Rosenthal & Sons having put the duds on the famous piece of silverware. Among the improvements is an extra rim on which to include the series between Ottawa and Galt and Ottawa and Edmonton last January. A new base has been supplied and the old rim replaced. The cup proper, however, has been untouched, and it is probable it never will be interfered with. Messrs. Rosenthal expect to have the trophy all ready for shipment to the Wanderer club this week.

Regina Signs Two.

Regina, April 12.—Manager Walters of Regina, has just succeeded in landing two pitchers he has been after. Parrish, of Green Bay, Wis., and Sage, from Hibbing, Minn., are the two men. Jacobson, a catcher from the Chippewa Valley League, is also to be given a trial. Parrish stands six feet four and will be literally able to lay them over the plate.

THE FOOTBALL LEAGUE HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

The League This Year Will Consist of Nine Teams, Divided Into Divisions A and B.

BOTH DIVS. COMPOSED OF SENIOR TEAMS

Caledonians Have a Team in Each Division—Season Commences on Monday, May 2nd, and There Will be Games Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday—St. Georges and Y.M.C.A. Play the Opening Game.

A meeting of the executive of the City Football League was held in the Y. M. C. A. last evening. President J. W. Ward was in the chair and other officers present were Vice-President Smith and Secretary Aramur.

The following clubs were represented: Strathcona, Norwood, St. Georges, the Hiernians, Y. M. C. A., Caledonians, A. and B. North Edmonton, Sons of England, and 101st Regiment.

The question of an intermediate league came up and it was advocated by the representatives of the Calles. He said that his club would be willing to put in a second team and the Y. M. C. A. would do the same. The majority of the representatives showed no great anxiety to participate in an intermediate league and the motion was defeated.

Strathcona then came in for a little bit of attention, and their representative was given clearly to understand that the President City's action in dropping out during the last two years, had placed them in a very unfavorable light with the other clubs. The Strathcona representative stated that the reason his team had dropped out in former years, was because it was not satisfied with the treatment received at the hands of the league. However, he gave the executive to understand that his team would finish out the season this year.

The Dividing of the League
Mr. Smith moved, seconded by Dr. Collins, that the league be divided into divisions A and B. This aroused a great deal of discussion. Mr. Aramur did not think very highly of the proposition, and termed the proceedings of last year, when three strong teams and one weak one, were grouped together, "as farcical."

It was pointed out to the dissenters that to play the nine teams in one series, with home and home games would take care of the middle of September to finish the schedule. In addition, it would then be too late to participate in the provincial series. Finally, the delegates decided to divide the league into divisions A and B, and the make up of each to be decided by drawing the names from a hat. The drawing resulted as follows:

TEACH YOUNG IDEA TO SHOOT

President Lol. Solman, of the N.H.L., Will Distribute 5,000 Lacrosse Sticks to the Boys, Gratis.

Montreal, April 16.—Lol. Solman, president of the Tecumseh, and the president of the National Lacrosse Union for this year, will give a tremendous impetus to the boy lacrosse movement which is gaining ground throughout Canada by presenting five thousand lacrosse sticks and balls to the boys who attend the first match at the Island, where the Tecumseh headquarters are.

"I thoroughly believe in the idea," said Mr. Solman, "and I am going to do all I can to encourage it. We must train up new lacrosse players or the supply will soon be exhausted and the great national summer game of Canada will die of inanition. We will invite the school children to one of our first matches and we will give them free transportation."

MEDICINE HAT IS NOT CONTENT

Champions Think They are Entitled to as Many Home Games as the Other Cities—Some Good Suggestions.

Medicine Hat, April 13.—The local management are at work preparing a schedule to be submitted to President Eckstrom as soon as possible as the time is drawing near for the opening of the season on May 4th. The larger cities are making a strong plea for the greater number of games to be played in those places as was the case last year when Medicine Hat team played only forty-five games at home and sixty-two at outside places. The schedule to be submitted by the management here will ask for an equal number of games at each place or in the event of a larger number in the larger cities that they be required to bear a portion of the visiting team's travelling expenses as the smaller towns are not only losing the money in gate receipts but are required to pay the expenses of the boys when away from home.

The suggestion is also made that the receipts of holiday games be equally divided amongst the eight teams in the league, no matter in what cities they are played. "This looks like a very reasonable and should prevent a great deal of friction and hard feeling in the towns who wish these dates and are unable to secure them."

WHAT THE PREZ. HAS TO SAY NOW

Mr. Eckstrom States That the Schedule Should Satisfy all the Mag. nates—Umpires Must Work Well or Will be Fired.

The Lethbridge Herald of Wednesday has a lengthy interview with President Eckstrom of the Western Canada League. It appears that our revered prez. is having troubles of his own with the schedule. But he, and a staff of assistants are getting the tangles straightened out. From Mr. Eckstrom's remarks, we get the impression that each club will get a fair deal and the best possible balance in serving out the plans is sought. Moose Jaw is probably entitled to the 24th of May date in Winnipeg, but it will likely be given to Regina, as they have evidently had the most difficulty in financing a team. The Lethbridge team will have to open at home, in order to make the schedule work out properly.

The Umpires

"The staff of officials under contract at present," said Mr. Eckstrom, "look very likely, but you can't tell a thing about them until they have commenced their work, and if it is not of a high class calibre they will be let out without delay."

"Umpires shall be representatives of the league upon the field, and shall be held responsible for the discipline

EDDIE COTTER CROSSES THE POND

Will be the First Canadian to Participate in the Historic English Marathon—He Left Yesterday.

Hamilton, Ont., April 15.—Eddie Cotter, the Burlington boy, winner of 1909 Brantford to Hamilton race and holder of the record of 2:51.53, left for England, yesterday, accompanied by Dick Baker, the Toronto trainer who handled him in the Brantford to Hamilton race last year. Cotter will have a month in England to prepare for the English Marathon to be held on May 21st over the Olympic course, starting at Windsor Castle. Cotter is the first Canadian to start in the famous race. He is being sent by the Hamilton Spectator.

of the teams; order, and gentlemanly conduct of the players shall be enforced so as to raise the standard of baseball, and have the game free from rowdiness or anything pertaining to it.

The Salary Limit

"The salary limit which was raised this year from $1,300 to $1,500 per month, must be lived up to by each club. This $200 increase means a better calibre of players, and the line-up given out by the different club managers, bear out this fact. Better ball means bigger gate receipts and the league magnates were wise to raise the ante."

POURED UPON CORNWALL

Cross Examination of the Member From Peace River Was Continued all Yesterday Afternoon by Mr. R. B. Bennett—Cornwall Declared He Held no Stock in the A. & G. W.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Royal Commission was delayed for a few minutes after two o'clock by the non-appearance of Mr. Cornwall.

"Mr. Cornwall was not at all well this morning, my lords," explained Mr. McKenna. "He may be delayed a few minutes and I hope your lordships will pardon the delay."

It was ten minutes after two o'clock when Mr. Cornwall resumed his seat in the witness box, and Mr. Bennett continued his cross-examination.

"I was asking you if you had ever attempted to use your influence to get a subsidy or guarantee from the government. Did you?"

"No. Not at all."

Mr. Bennett then quoted from a letter from Faulkner to Cornwall, dated January 3, 1907, which said, "I have wired you this date to ask for $13,000 exclusive of subsidy."

"Now, with this letter to refresh your memory, do you still say that you never asked the government for a bond guarantee?"

"Yes," said Mr. Cornwall, but later he stated that he has asked them about it from time to time, but not for any specific amount.

Mr. Bennett then read from the evidence given by Mr. Cornwall yesterday, quoting: "Then what you tried to get from the government was a bond guarantee of not more than $12,000 per mile, with interest at 4 per cent."

Answer: "I presume so."

Other evidence along the same line was read.

"Now," said Mr. Bennett, "I want you to tell me, Mr. Cornwall, when you were telling the truth yesterday, when you admitted asking for a specific guarantee, or today when you state that you did not ask for a specific amount?"

"Is there anything contrary about the two statements?" inquired Mr. Cornwall.

"Do you not remember what you said today?" asked Mr. Bennett. "Do you not see the inconsistency?"

Mr. Robson then objected to Mr. Bennett's indecision in putting the question. "State the exact question, and let Mr. Cornwall clear up the discrepancy," said Mr. McKenna.

"Well, I put the question mildly owing to Mr. Cornwall's ill-health," said Mr. Bennett.

"I'll withdraw Mr. Cornwall's ill-health as an excuse," stated Mr. McKenna. "Let's get to the bottom of this thing."

Finally, Mr. Bennett asked Mr. Cornwall if he remembered going before the cabinet with his colleagues and asking the government for a bond guarantee of $12,000 per mile, with an interest charge of 4 per cent. on fifty-year bonds.

Mr. Cornwall replied that he didn't remember anything about it at all, and appealed to Mr. Justice Scott if he could call witnesses who had been there. The chairman said "Yes, but that could be arranged later."

The next few minutes were enlivened by a battle royal between the lawyer and the witness. "I can't remember," "I don't remember any—" thing about it," was the most Mr. Bennett could get out of the witness in regard to the alleged asking of the provincial government to guarantee the bonds.

New Syndicate Agreement

"Do you remember substituting a paper fortune of $100,000 for $524,000?"

"Yes, I remember about that."

Mr. Bennett then read the new agreement between the syndicate and Cornwall whereby he was to get $250,000 if he secured a guarantee of $300,000 a mile for 250 miles of the road from either the provincially or dominion governments.

Mr. Cornwall corrected a statement; he made the day before yesterday that this agreement had been made in Winnipeg on the way to Ottawa; saying yesterday that he thought he had made it on the way back.

"Did Premier Rutherford and the Hon. C. W. Cross go to England about that time?" asked Mr. Bennett.

"I don't know."

"Didn't you see them in Ottawa and did not both of them tell you that they would be glad to do all in their power to help you with your project?"

"I don't think so, for I'm quite clear I didn't see them in Ottawa at all."

"At this time you were helping Hawes along?"

"Of course, but not personally. I met Sir Wilfrid Laurier alone while in Ottawa, and talked to him about this project."

"What date was that?"

"I don't remember dates very well. I can't tell you."

Mr. Bennett then quoted from a letter from Cornwall to Minty, dated Athabasca Landing, June 6, 1906, in which the statement was made that he (Mr. Cornwall) knew personally that the matter had not been settled in the executive council.

"How did you know that this matter had not been settled in council?"

"Just my imagination, I guess," was the reply.

"Any other reason?"

"With Mr. Rutherford told me before he went away that he'd do the best he could. I guess that gave me the idea."

Another extract from the same letter was quoted: "I know that Mr. Rutherford will consult the Attorney-General on the bond feature," being the words that Mr. Bennett wanted Mr. Cornwall to explain.

"Why did you say: 'I know that Mr. Rutherford would consult Mr. Cross in regard to the bond issue?'"

"My only reason was that I knew that Mr. Cushing was a public ownership man, and that when they got around to selling bonds they would naturally ask the attorney-general."

"In what capacity were you writing?"

"Just because Minty was the solicitor of the syndicate."

"Had you any conversation with Mr. Cross regarding the bond issue?"

"I've talked Mr. Cross blind on railroad matters, but I hadn't discussed bonds with him at all."

"Why do you say 'Mr. Stocks and Mr. Cushing can talk railroad matters, but they wouldn't have weight?'" asked Mr. Bennett, referring to the same letter.

"Well, they're big men, and their word would carry a good deal of weight," was the reply.

"So that the statement that it had not been considered in council came from Premier Rutherford himself?"

"Yes, I guess so."

In asking Mr. Cornwall about Mr. Bowen, Mr. Bennett wanted to know if Bowen had not told Cornwall he was looking for a railroad proposition up in the Peace River?

"I don't remember; perhaps he did."

Mr. Bennett read a copy of a letter from Minty to Cornwall, dated May 26, 1908. It spoke of Bowen's visit to Minty. In it Minty expressed the opinion that Bowen meant business and went on to say that he was getting after the members of the syndicate and understood that they were all willing to sell out at once.

"You weren't prepared to sell out at once?" asked Mr. Bennett.

"As a matter of fact I gave it away."

"On May 26th, 1908, were you willing to sell out at once?" Mr. Bennett persisted.

"Yes, I think I would have sold out pretty cheap about that time."

"Mr. Bennett repeated the interrogation."

"Yes, I guess I was willing," replied Mr. Cornwall.

Minty was acting for your syndicate then?"

"Yes."

"You didn't know of any relations between him and Bowen?"

"No."

Mr. Minty's letter spoke of the lapsing of the charter if the arrangement with Mr. Bowen was not completed.

"You knew the charter would lapse March 21, 1907?"

"Yes."

"I assume that there will be benefits coming to you in the future," read Mr. Bennett from the Minty letter.

"What did that mean?"

"The chances I would have to do business when that north country was opened up."

Mr. Bennett noted that Mr. Cornwall's name did not appear in the opinion given to Bowen.

"Did you give Mr. Bowen something of the same effect as far as you were concerned?"

"I think I signed something."

First Meeting With Clarke

Mr. Cornwall recalled having met Bowen at Banff in the early part of the July, but he could not remember distinctly having met him in Edmonton.

"Did he then communicate to you the fact that one of his associates was W. R. Clarke?"

Mr. Cornwall could not recall.

"Had you met Clarke before you met Bowen at Banff?"

"I don't remember when I met the man. I can't swear to it."

"Will you swear that you met W. R. Clarke at Calgary?"

"My only recollection of meeting Clarke is at Calgary."

Did Mr. Clarke accompany Mr. Bowen in the occasion when you saw Mr. Bowen at Banff?"

"I don't think so."

Did Mr. Bowen accompany Mr. Clarke when you met Mr. Clarke in Calgary?"

"I have a recollection that he did."
 "That would be some time between the first and what date in July?"
 "I went to Banff about the fourth or fifth of July and stayed there about ten days."
 "Was Mr. Clarke introduced to you as one of Mr. Bowen's associates?"
 "Yes."
 "Then in July, 1908, you knew Clarke as one of Bowen's associates?"
 "Yes."
 "Prior to that time you seen Bowen in Edmonton after first meeting him here?"
 "I think so. I don't recollect whether Mr. Clarke was with him or not."

"Did you not between the 20th and 25th of June meet Clarke here and was not Bowen with him?"
 "It is possible that I did meet him. I don't know where I first met him. My best recollection at the present moment is Calgary. It may have been Edmonton for all that. If I met him here it was in June. If I was in Calgary it was the first part of July."
 "Did you introduce W. R. Clarke to Hon. Mr. Rutherford?"
 "I did not."
 "Did you introduce him to Mr. Cross, Mr. Cushing, Mr. Findlay, Mr. Biggar or the manager of the Merchants Bank?"
 "As far as I can recollect, none of those introductions were made by me."

"It was in connection with the railway."
 "How long did Mr. Clarke remain here?"
 "That's something I can't tell you."
 "You didn't help him any?"
 "I didn't introduce him."
 "As you told my learned friend yesterday, you didn't give him any assistance."
 "I may have advised with him and talked with him."
 "You were aware that Clarke obtained from the government the concession that the railway bonds should be guaranteed to the extent of $300,000 a mile?"
 "I am aware of that."
 "When did you become aware of that?"
 "After the bonds had all been guaranteed."
 "That is after the House had risen in February, 1909?"
 "Yes."
 "You say then that you had no knowledge, direct or indirect, remote or near, that would indicate to your mind that the government had committed itself to this venture with Mr. Clarke?"
 "I had no positive knowledge."
 "Any knowledge not positive?"
 "I imagined, hoped, expected that they would do something for this road."
 "When did you have the first idea that the government had committed itself to this project?"
 "I don't know that I could get much information about that."
 "It appears that on November 26, 1908, the government had committed the province to the undertaking. Had you any knowledge of that?"
 "No," replied Mr. Cornwall, who, in answer to further questions, said that he had not seen Premier Rutherford's letter and had not been sure of it until he had seen the announcement in the press.

"Did you know that Bowen was to receive $40,000 in stock and $10,000 in cash to be completed when the deal was consummated?"
 "No."
 "Did you acquire a $20,000 interest from Bowen or have anybody as trustee for you acquire a $20,000 interest?"
 "No."
 "Were you in Winnipeg on December 32, 1908?"
 "I think I was."
 "Who gave this railway its name?"
 "You'll have to ask somebody else."
 "Where did you first learn that name had been given the road?"
 "When I saw that a road of that name was incorporated."
 Mr. Bennett quoted a letter from Minty to Clarke dated December 12, 1908, in which that name was used.
 "At that time," he asked "you would not have known what he meant?"
 "I don't believe I would have."
 "It appears from this letter that you had a conversation with Hon. Mr. Rutherford just before you left Edmonton," said Mr. Bennett. "Is that so?"
 "I presume perhaps I had. I was always discussing railway matters with him."

questioned the citizens to observe Monday, April 18th, as a clean-up day, the following suggestions are made in order that the householders may co-operate with the Health Department in obtaining the best possible results. Any householder who would prefer to use Saturday afternoon the 16th, for the same purpose is requested to prepare his premises for the visit of the scavengers by having his refuse collected as follows:

Non-Inflammable Material

All tin cans, bottles, and other non-inflammable refuse are to be gathered in one place near the lane convenient of access to the scavenger.

Asbes

All asbes are to be collected into one place near the lane and must not be mixed with other refuse.

Asb Cans

All householders will be required to have an ash can where not provided after the cleaning up process is completed.

Burning Refuse

Outside the area of the First Class Fire Limits, all grass, weeds, paper, brush, chips or other inflammable material dry enough to burn are to be gathered into small heaps and burned on the premises. This must not be done however if the wind is high and provision must be made for the careful supervision of such fires and the extinguishing of the embers after burning.

Building Material

Such material as old bricks, stones, plaster, or other building refuse if collected will be removed, a reasonable charge being made therefor payable to the Health Department.

Any old lumber, boxes or other material suitable for kindling or fuel should be broken up and neatly piled or put away for this purpose.

Within the area of the first class fire limits no fires are to be lighted, except by permission obtained from the fire chief and under his supervision.

The first class fire limits extend as far west as Seventh street, east as far as Kinistino avenue, north as far as Elizabeth street and south to the lane south of Jasper avenue.

When they decide your case is curable, all your worry is removed for you know they will not deceive you. They guarantee to cure all curable cases. If you are at present within the clutches of any secret habit which is sapping your life by degrees, if you are suffering from the results of past dissolutions, if your blood has been tainted from any private disease and you are not married; if you are married and live in dread of symptoms breaking out and exposing your fault; if you are suffering as the result of a miserable life—Dr. K. & K. are your Rulers. Say your own before them confidentially and they will tell you honestly if you are curable.

CUPID LIES IN ICE BOX

Little Divinity Was Driven From a Cemetery.

NOT UP TO HIS JOE ANYWAY

Instead of Making a Match he had Come Between a Happily Married Pair.

New York, April 14.—A grave in the Greenwood cemetery in Brooklyn has been stripped of its monument because the trustees don't think that the nude figure of a man and woman are proper ornaments for such a place. Even then they might have forgiven the nakedness if the man hadn't been bending very naturally to kiss the life-like lips of a reclining Psyche. The man was none other than Dan Cupid all grown.

Samuel Carey, controller of Greenwood cemetery, dictated the following letter to Mrs. Mary L. Stetler, of 224 Sydenham street, Philadelphia:

My attention has been called to the statuette of Cupid and Psyche placed in your lot. This is not a proper object to be placed in the cemetery and I must insist on your having it removed.

Mrs. Stetler didn't know what to do with the statuette. She had no use for it and she didn't want to sell it. So she asked Mr. R. McGovern, who has green-houses in Ninth avenue near Greenwood, to get the statuette and take care of it. McGovern took it to his place in the expectation that word would come from Mrs. Stetler providing for its disposition.

A month or so went by without any orders. Then McGovern wrote to Mrs. Stetler about it. It didn't take up much room, but it attracted a lot of attention, and wouldn't she please take it away? Mrs. Stetler did not send definite orders and McGovern had to provide for it as his necessity dictated.

In McGovern's establishment is a room which he has for storing odds and ends. It is full of flower pots, wire plant stands, roots, snafes, iron-els and grass shears and in one corner an old icebox. He looked over his storeroom with the thought that he could tuck Cupid and Psyche away in it somewhere. But, look as he would he couldn't find a place for it. Mrs. Stetler was written to again, but she didn't send any orders. McGovern went back and looked in the storeroom over again. He opened the old icebox. It looked large enough to take the statuette. Besides, it offered the proper seclusion and would stop folks inquiring what it belonged to.

They carried the little marble box, but when they came to tuck it into the ice box, the door caught Cupid's wings. That seemed to spoil the whole plan. McGovern looked carefully at the wings and found that they were unhinged. Carefully he took them off and then the statuette slid into place. The wings he put in afterwards. That is how Cupid and Psyche spent the winter in an icebox in Brooklyn.

A gravedigger was the first to discover it. A whisper ran through the working force and finally reached the ear of Supt. Grassman. He strolled down to take a look, rubbed his eyes and hurried back to Controller Carey.

The statuette nearly three feet high adorned the grave of Alice Stetler until the trustees decided that it wasn't proper. It was given to Miss Stetler by her fiancé many years ago. He died just before their marriage and the gift became a sort of idol upon which the girl lavished most of her love. The lover purchased the statuette when travelling in Europe. He died a few weeks after his return. The kiss which Cupid and Psyche were preparing to exchange but which was forever held in abeyance in the marble came to represent her own disappointment, and the suggestive group was kept in her room.

Miss Stetler was married several years after the death of her first sweetheart, but the marriage was unhappy. It is said that the statuette caused the first of a series of quarrels which resulted in a divorce. When Mrs. Stetler came to her daughter in this city she was found on her death-bed. The statuette was on a pedestal in the room and the dying woman, then past middle life, begged that it be placed on her grave.

Mrs. Stetler thought of carrying the matter to the courts and fighting the order of removal as issued by the cemetery authorities, but she was advised that they were acting within their rights. Every purchaser of a plot signs an agreement permitting the removal of anything of which the cemetery authorities disapprove.

EFFECT OF AN EARLY SPRING

Discussed by Messrs. Harcourt and Motherwell.

AREA UNDER CROPS LARGE

Mr. Harcourt Thinks That the Season we are Having will Greatly Increase it.

Winnipeg, April 16.—The Telegram asked the agricultural departments of Alberta and Saskatchewan the other was likely to have on the weather for the balance of the season.

While Deputy Minister Geo. Harcourt of Alberta does not commit himself on the subject of whether or not this summer will be dryer than usual, he does not think that the prevalence of the idea will affect the area under crop. He says:

"Agricultural Editor Telegram—The department is in receipt of your letter of the 31st ult., asking my opinion respecting the statement that the old-timers of Western Canada look upon the early spring as an indication of an exceptionally dry summer season, and as a result a greater acreage will be summer-fallowed this year. I do not think that any opinion the old-timers may hold respecting this matter will have an appreciable influence upon the acreage seeded or summer-fallowed in Alberta this year.

"If a 'sourdough' warned a 'chechacko' with his engine and gangs that it would be unsafe to break and seed much land this year, as it was going to be a dry season, the 'chechacko' would nevertheless carry out his plans possibly buy a headlight for his engine, put on a second crew and begin plowing twenty-four hours in the day instead of twelve. The old-timer may prove not to be a false prophet, but he will not be heeded this year.

"Therefore, I do not think that the early spring will have any other effect in this province than in greatly increasing the acreage which will be seeded and the acreage which will be judge, will be in the acreage seeded to spring wheat."—Geo. Harcourt, deputy minister.

Minister of Agriculture W. R. Motherwell, of Saskatchewan, rewards

the popular idea, that an early spring is followed by a dry summer, as a "popular fallacy." He thinks that rather than a large acreage of summer fallow this year, we will have less. Mr. Motherwell says:

"Agricultural Editor, Telegram—Your favor of the 31st ultimo, making enquiries regarding spring conditions and the likelihood of a dry summer, has been received. "Replying, I may say that the longer a careful observer resides here the less is he disposed to think he knows about probable weather conditions in the future. There is a popular impression that an early spring is invariably followed by a dry summer, but the records do not bear that out. There was only one early spring of this description that I can recall and that was in 1899, which was followed by an exceedingly dry summer; but on the other hand, 1895 and 1904, which were equally early, were followed by wet seasons, so that this prevalent idea would appear to be a popular fallacy rather than a guide to predict precipitation for the following summer.

"With regard to what effect the early spring would have on crop areas and amount of summer-fallow, I anticipate that the early spring will have a tendency to increase the crop acreage and decrease the summer-fallow in the newer districts at least because of the longer period in which to prepare the land for spring seeding, and the consequent lesser acreage left for fallow."—W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture.

HARD LIVING UP THERE

Young Scientist Who Left Edmonton for Arctic Regions Suffers.

Ottawa, April 15.—"For five months we had to live on one hundred pounds of flour, forty pounds of hard bread, twenty pounds of tea, four pounds of salt, and eighteen pounds of tobacco.

This was the result of our having struck a bad game country."

R. W. Brock, of the geological survey, has received the above letter this morning from V. Stefansson and Dr. Anderson, who have been on a scientific expedition into the Arctic region. A two years' expedition is being conducted under the auspices of the geological survey and the American Museum of Natural History. The letter that Mr. Brock received was given to a captain of a steam whaler near Cape Bathurst, in the Arctic regions, last August, and only arrived in civilization after a journey of more than nine months.

The letter goes on to say that the one hundred pounds of flour was all consumed in the first five days, after the party, which consisted of five men arrived in the barren and gameless wastes of Victoria Land.

Mr. Stefansson continues his narrative by describing the privations they had to endure, with little else than tobacco, salt and hard bread to live on. "Finally, however," he concludes, "we came out safe with our ten dogs, fat and well."

Mr. Stefansson will remain in the far north through the coming summer and the winter of 1910 and 1911. He will winter with the Eskimos, whose mode of living he is studying at Copper Mine. He will return in August of 1911. Dr. Anderson, who is an American, will return this summer.

The dance to be given in the Separate School Hall Tuesday evening next by the ladies of the Hospital Aid, easily promises to be the social event of the season in Edmonton, and the numerous committees are enthusiastic both over the prospects of a most pleasant affair and also over the support already given to their efforts. In the District Court this morning the three Swedes, Lyons, Anderson and Nourman, received their final hearing. Judge Taylor found that the evidence did not connect Nourman with the assault and acquitted him. Lyons and Anderson were found guilty and though an offence of this kind is liable to a sentence of three years, the judge took into consideration the fact that it was a first offence and they received a fine of $100, or six months at the Fort.

The Hughes branch of the Lutheran Church have decided to build a college in Alberta, and a committee of that church are now looking for a desirable location. Ryley and King have offered free sites. Tofield and Edmonton will also make offers and it is understood that Camrose will offer a choice of two free sites as an inducement to locate the college here. The sites mentioned are: One west of town north of the C.P.R. tracks; the other, east of the C.N.R. station. Other things being equal it would seem that on account of their railway facilities the choice would be between Camrose and Edmonton—Camrose Canadian.

The organization of an orchestral society was complete Thursday night in the Mechanics' Hall after rehearsal. It is to be a part of the Philharmonic Society made up of choral and orchestral sections and now working for a grand concert in May under Mr. Barford's direction. to hear from Cornwall as to Mr. Rutherford's views on the matter.

"I'm not responsible for what Mr. Rutherford writes," replied Mr. Cornwall. "Now after you had been down in California after your marriage, did you see Clarke again?"

"I don't remember."

"Did not you travel on the cars with him, and did not you reach Edmonton on January 9th, 1909, with Clarke?"

"Yes, I think I did."

"Where did you join him?"

"Chicago."

"He said he had been successful," said Mr. Cornwall when asked what Mr. Clarke had told him of his trip to Europe.

"The legislation having passed there was quite a period in which little was done about the Waterways. When was that document you prepared in Calgary turned over to Mr. Clarke?"

"Along in the spring."

"The effect of it was that you turned over all your interests in the Athabasca syndicate to Mr. Clarke?"

"Yes."

"And you received no money?"

"No."

"I understand there was nothing coming to me," said Mr. Cornwall in reply to further enquiries on this point.

"Why?"

"I didn't expect anything as I had turned it over to Mr. Clarke."

In answer to further questions Mr. Cornwall said that he had arranged with Mr. Clarke to put $25,000 in the steamboats in the summer of 1908. It had been Mr. Clarke's suggestion, said Mr. Cornwall.

"That was contingent on this deal going through?"

"He said if he built the railway, he would want to put money in the steamboats."
